THANK YOU TO CORPS OF DISCOVERY II: 200 YEARS TO THE FUTURE:

AT FOUR REGIONAL TRIBAL LISTENING SESSIONS IN 1999, the National Park Service explained its plan for a bicentennial “traveling classroom,” Corps of Discovery II: 200 Years to the Future, that would follow the route and schedule of the original Corps of Discovery. This after-the-fact consultation and absence of collaboration with American Indians offended many of the attending tribal members, and none of them embraced the concept. That resistance slowly changed after the Park Service installed Gerard Baker as Superintendent of the Lewis & Clark National Historic Trail and Corps II. Gerard traveled across the country to meet face-to-face with more than ninety tribal delegations and enlist tribal participation.

Because of his commitment to including American Indian perspectives in Corps II, from January 13, 2003, through September 26, 2006, more than 400 Native people gave more than 1800 hours of presentations in Corps II's Tent of Many Voices. Our deepest appreciation goes to Gerard and those 400 storytellers, artists, musicians, historians, scholars and leaders:
